ASTARTE INVITATION LETTER

Dear colleagues and friends,

We are glad to invite you to “The 8th Breast Health Days in the Mediterranean. A just multidisciplinary approach” organized jointly by Astarte, Oncology Department and Breast Imaging Department of MITERA Hospital. The main goal of the Conference is to facilitate the interaction and mutually exchange ideas about screening, early diagnosis and treatment of breast cancer. Astarte is based on the principle of multidisciplinary interaction and communication with patients and the society between the various countries of the Mediterranean Region. The same principles will be the foundation of the meeting which will be held in Athens at “N. Louros” Conference Center, MITERA Hospital in the 13th and 14th of September 2019 with free attendance and spontaneous translation.

This is an exciting time for breast cancer, with accelerating progress in imaging, local therapy and systemic therapy. The advances in technology have transformed breast imaging as a highly demanding principle of early diagnosis and follow up care. Individualization is more than an intellectual exercise; it represents the basis for precision diagnosis and decision making in our care. Precision Medicine and molecular characterization of cancer have established the principle that breast cancer represents a mixture of different biologic entities with a wide variety of underlying biologies, with distinct clinical course, treatment and response to therapy. The challenge of developing an individualized treatment plan for each patient is part of daily care. The developing options for targeted biologic therapies and the development of resistance through subclonal evolution make breast cancer therapy a field undergoing rapid evolution.

The exciting transition of our time and the developing challenges will be detailed in the conference and the messages will be conveyed from the multidisciplinary team of our countries to the public. The importance of the opportunities for our patients and the challenge to our societies to offer high standard diagnosis and management of breast cancer will be discussed and debated. There are great expectations in the society to transform cancer into a chronic disease. There is a demand to eliminate the stigma and this will be the leading force of the conference. Finally, spreading the news to the public and involving the people along with the health care specialists will be a message at the conclusion of the 8th Breast Health Days.

We anticipate a great meeting and we are looking forward to welcome you in Athens!
